

Brecksville Soccer Organization Kicks In Support for Girls With Sole

The Brecksville Soccer Organization (BSO) and American Soccer Academy (ASA) has partnered with Girls With Sole (GWS), a local nonprofit organization focusing on fitness and wellness to empower the minds, bodies and souls of girls in the Cleveland area who have experienced some form of abuse.

Frank Fantozzi, director of BSO and ASA, fully believes in the Girls With Sole's mission. As a father with daughters and the founder of BSO and ASA, he stated, "Fitness, athletics and team sports are great for empowering children." To support Girls With Sole, BSO and ASA will pay program costs for any girls served by GWS who choose to play competitive soccer in the fall or spring seasons.

Liz Ferro, the director and founder of GWS, said she is excited and grateful for BSO and ASA's support in the southern suburbs and sees this as a fitting complement to their other fitness and wellness programs including yoga, dance and traditional team sports.

"Girls need someone to believe in them so that they may believe in themselves," Ferro said. "Many of these girls who have experienced abuse would otherwise have no place to participate in sports or group exercise in a safe environment, or have access to group athletics. BSO and ASA has unselfishly done a great job in the community by creating a wonderful environment for children to feel welcome and safe as they learn how to play soccer correctly."

As GWS raises money for program funding to help local girls rebuild their lives and their self-esteem, Ferro said BSO and ASA's support gets them closer to their goals. Ferro believes that giving girls an opportunity to make healthier choices for themselves will also help reduce the instances of abuse and help them to lead productive lives.
